Welcome to the BMI Scholarships and Opportunities Guide. Feel free to explore the following resources. This guide will be periodically updated to include new information.

1. The Emerging Leaders Internship Program and the Communications Internship Programs

http://www.cbcfinc.org/internshipsandfellowships.html

The Emerging Leaders Internship Program sponsored by Walmart is a semester-long paid internship for college students. Interns work four days on Capitol Hill, in federal agencies and at non-profit organizations. Past interns have served in various capacities at the Department of Justice (DOJ), the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the Transportation Security Administration (TSA), Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and on House and Senate committees. On Friday afternoons, interns attend educational seminars that focus on domestic and international issues, participate in leadership training sessions and visit cultural and historical sites in the Washington, D.C., area. Each cohort must complete a team community service project in the surrounding community. CBCF provides housing and a stipend.

Qualifications

- U.S. citizen or permit to work in the U.S.
- Currently or recently enrolled in college full-time when applying for program.
- Demonstrated interest in public service, governance, and policy-making process.

Selection Process

Emerging Leader Interns are selected based on the following criteria:

- Solid scholastic achievement
- Strong writing skills
- Community service contributions
- Evidence of leadership skills
- Quality of paper application and, in some instances, interview performance
The selection is highly competitive. Applications are submitted to CBCF and reviewed by a CBCF selection committee. Finalists are selected and notified by CBCF.

For more information, please call (202) 263-2800 or send an email to interns@cbcfinc.org and type “Emerging Leaders Internship Program” in the subject line.

The CBCF Communications Internship is a semester-long program for college students who are interested in learning about press and media relations on Capitol Hill. Interns work with the press secretary or communications director in Congressional Black Caucus member offices. Interns contribute substantially to their host offices by researching legislation, preparing press releases, writing op-editorials, writing arguments for a position, organizing and helping to prepare for briefings and forums, and performing various office tasks. Housing and a stipend are provided.

Qualifications

- U.S. citizen or permit to work in the U.S.
- Currently or recently enrolled in college full-time when applying for program
- Demonstrated professional familiarity with journalism, public relations, or other media-related fields

Selection Process

Selecting a CBCF Communications Intern is based on a combination of the following criteria:

- Strength of faculty nomination
- Strong writing skills
- Exposure and some work experience in communications fields
- Evidence of leadership skills
- Quality of paper application and interview performance

For more information, please call (202) 263-2800 or send an email to interns@cbcfinc.org and type “Communications Internship Program” in the subject line.

2. Federal Reserve Bank of New York

Undergraduate Summer Analyst Program

The Undergraduate Summer Analyst Program provides outstanding undergraduate students with the opportunity to gain valuable work experience in public service at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Through advanced project work assignments and professional development activities, summer analysts gain an extensive understanding of the Fed’s work. Analysts also have the opportunity to enhance their business skills through critical financial analysis, formal presentations, research and writing.

Analysts are assigned to a particular area or function, but have opportunities for collaboration with other analysts and employees from around the Bank. In addition to their daily responsibilities, analysts attend weekly presentations hosted by senior management on the Bank's responsibilities and operations.

Qualifications

Applicants who have completed their sophomore year of college by the beginning of the internship are eligible. The program begins in early June. The program is extremely competitive and size is limited. Applicants must have a demonstrated interest in banking, business, economics, public policy or finance with a strong academic record. Excellent interpersonal and written communication skills are essential, along with demonstrated PC skills. Specific requirements may be applied based on Bank area.

Applicants must be available for in-Bank interviews.

The New York Fed does not provide summer housing.

For more Information:

http://www.newyorkfed.org/careers/summerintern.html

The summer program allows participants to learn about career opportunities in public service at the New York Fed. The program is the Bank’s largest campus recruitment source for full-time jobs. Please view the website for job information once you completed your undergraduate degree.

3. The Leadership Alliance

Summer Research - Early Identification Program (SR-EIP)

The Leadership Alliance Summer Research Early Identification Program (SR-EIP), offers undergraduates, interested in pursuing a PhD or MD-PhD, the opportunity to work for eight to ten weeks under the guidance of a faculty or research mentor at a participating Alliance institution. Through this one-on-one collaboration, students gain theoretical knowledge and practical training in academic research and scientific experimentation. The SR-EIP is designed to encourage students from groups traditionally underrepresented in the sciences, social sciences and humanities to consider research careers in the academic, public or private sectors. Students are required to present a written report and/or abstract at the end of their summer research activity and complete a program evaluation. All participants are expected to make oral or poster presentations of their research at the Leadership Alliance’s annual, national symposium. This all expense paid summer internship provides students with a competitive stipend, travel and housing.
Qualifications

Applicants must be currently enrolled full-time in an accredited public or private college or university in the United States or its territories, as recognized by the U.S. Department of Education. All applicants must:

- Be in good academic standing with a GPA of 3.0 or better.
- Demonstrate interest and potential to pursue graduate study toward a PhD or MD-PhD.
- Have completed at least two semesters and have at least one semester remaining of their undergraduate education by the start of the summer program.
- Be a US citizen or have permanent resident status at the time of application.

Note: The SR-EIP is not designed for students pursuing professional training for careers in the practice of law, business administration, clinical medicine, clinical psychology or the allied health professions.

4. The Public Policy International Affairs Fellowship Program

The PPIA Junior Summer Institutes (JSI) have been the hallmark of the PPIA Fellowship Program for over 30 years. JSI is an intensive seven-week summer program that focuses on preparing students for graduate programs in public and international affairs and careers as policy professionals, public administrators and other leadership roles in public service. The JSI curriculum includes economics, statistics, domestic/international policy issues and leadership topics, all designed to sharpen the students' quantitative, analytic and communication skills. Extracurricular activities are also included. These skills are vital for admission into the top graduate programs in public and international affairs. The successful completion of a summer institute is a requirement for PPIA Fellows.

Qualifications:

All prospective PPIA Fellows are expected to dedicate themselves to the traditions and objectives of the PPIA Fellowship Program, have an abiding commitment to public service and contribute to more diverse perspectives in public policy and international affairs. The following are more specific criteria and guidelines:

- Must be a United States citizen or legal permanent resident to apply to the JSI's hosted by Berkeley, Maryland and Michigan. International applicants pursuing a bachelor's degree in the U.S. will be considered by Carnegie Mellon and Princeton.
- Must have completed junior year of college by the start of Junior Summer Institute (JSI) and have at least one full semester or two quarters of coursework remaining before graduation.
- Must not have attained a Bachelor’s Degree prior to start of Junior Summer Institute.
- Must be committed to completing a Master’s Degree in public and/or international affairs at one of the PPIA Consortium graduate schools.
• Must demonstrate an interest in pursuing a professional career associated with public service such as government, nonprofits, humanitarian and international organizations and other related programs.
• Must contribute to the diversity of perspectives.
• Economic need is given consideration.
• All academic majors are welcome to apply.

5. The Schomburg-mellon Humanitites Summer Institute

The Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation have created the Schomburg-Mellon Humanities Summer Institute to encourage minority students and others with an interest in African-American and African Diasporan Studies to pursue graduate degrees in the humanities.

The program, which is open to U.S. citizens and permanent residents, offers a six-week session for ten rising seniors (juniors in spring 2012, entering their senior year in fall 2012, graduating in 2013). Five will be selected from colleges and universities in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut and five from Historically Black Colleges and Universities across the nation.

The Institute, with the help of renowned scholars, will develop and nurture the students’ interest in the appropriate disciplines, and provide them with the requisite intellectual challenges and orientations needed to pursue humanities careers and to reach their full potential.

Qualifications:

Students entering their senior year in fall 2012
• U.S. citizens or permanent residents
• Enrolled in HBCUs or New York, New Jersey, Connecticut colleges or universities
• 3.0 GPA or higher

If you do not meet ALL eligibility requirements your application will not be considered.

6. The T. Howard Foundation Internship Program
The T. Howard Foundation Internship Program provides minority students with internship opportunities in the multimedia and entertainment industry.

Our partners include some of the largest media companies in the world. Our students are placed with companies from New York to Los Angeles, Washington, DC to Atlanta and many places in between. Our host company partners are committed to diversity and providing valuable industry experiences to T. Howard Foundation interns.

Qualifications

Be a minority college student
Sophomore, junior, senior or graduate student status at an accredited U.S. college/university
U.S. Citizen or international student holding a F-1 visa
Minimum cumulative GPA of 2.8 or higher
Available to work full-time from June-August (summer internship program only)

7. The Urban Institute Summer Academy

As a part of the Academy, fellows will engage in an intensive nine-week program of skills building and training in policy analysis and research on location at the Urban Institute in Washington, D.C. – the Nation’s capitol and the heart of U.S. policy-making. Students will spend the summer taking classes, attending policy seminars, and conducting analyses to hone their research skills while gaining exposure to a wide range of career opportunities in policy research and analysis.

Qualifications

- Be full-time college students
- Be rising seniors (Have completed their junior year by the summer of 2011)
- Major in a social science discipline
- Be from an underrepresented racial or ethnic group*
- Be a US citizen or permanent legal resident
- Have a minimum 3.0 GPA (out of 4.0)

Selection Process

Candidates will be selected based on academic performance (both GPA and rigor of academic course load), interest in public policy, demonstrated leadership potential and community involvement. The selection committee will be comprised of the Executive Director and a diverse panel of senior advisors and researchers. If selected as a semi-finalist, applicants will be required to provide additional information on their proposed research project. Finalists must also participate in mandatory phone interviews.

8. The Rockefeller University Summer Undergraduate Research Fellowship (SURF) program provides a unique opportunity for undergraduates to conduct laboratory research. SURF students work with leading scientists in a broad range of areas including biochemistry; structural biology and chemistry; molecular, cell and developmental biology; immunology; virology and microbiology; neuroscience; physics; and mathematical biology.

College sophomores and juniors are eligible to spend 10 weeks during the summer in a Rockefeller University laboratory. The program begins in early June and ends in mid-August. Placement in laboratories is centralized through the Dean's Office. Students are matched with laboratories according to their stated research interests, and work on projects under the direct supervision of faculty, postdoctoral fellows and/or senior graduate students.

Each year, students are chosen from a wide variety of applicants with diverse scientific backgrounds and training. Annually, more than 500 students apply for admission into the SURF Program and approximately 15 are accepted.

In order to fully experience the world of scientific research, SURF students are required to present and discuss scientific publications at weekly Journal Club meetings. This exposure allows participants to familiarize themselves with speaking to a scientific audience. SURF students also attend a special lecture series where Rockefeller faculty discuss their research and the evolution of their scientific interests. At the end of the program, SURF students will present their research results to fellow students and mentors at a poster session. SURF students receive a stipend of $4,000.00. Free housing will be provided for students who cannot commute.

9. Yale School of Management Pre-MBA Leadership Program

The Yale School of Management Pre-MBA Leadership Program is a highly selective, two-week summer program aimed at college sophomores, juniors and seniors and recent college graduates from populations typically under-represented in management education. We introduce you to the fundamentals of management education and give you the tools necessary to hone your individual leadership skills.

This emphasis on leadership flows from the mission of the School of Management: to educate leaders for business and society. When you know how to inspire people, as well as manage capital, materials and ideas, you can become a more potent agent of change. After completing this program, you will return to your campus and your community with a (re) focused sense of purpose that can guide you for many years to come.

Qualifications

The Pre-MBA Leadership Program is tailored toward current college sophomores, juniors and seniors and recent college graduates from populations typically under-represented in management education and those from non-traditional pre-MBA academic tracks. We strongly encourage students from the liberal arts, science and engineering fields to apply.

All applicants must demonstrate strong leadership potential and a commitment to diversity and inclusion in school and in the workplace. Competitive applicants will also show their interest in exploring the possibilities of MBA study.

10. The New York Needs You (NYNY) Fellowship Program

New York Needs You is seeking an energetic and entrepreneurial intern to join the NYNY Programs Department. The intern will be actively involved in the planning and execution of the NYNY Workshops, an integral part of NYNY’s flagship two-year Fellows Program. The intern will gain knowledge of program planning, event management, information tracking and will have the opportunity to attend planning and department meetings, as well as to take advantage of selected in-house trainings and briefings.

Qualifications

We are searching for high potential, goal-oriented college students who are the first in their families to attend college and who possess a strong track record of performance and leadership. In selecting our NYNY Fellow class, we will consider the following:

Performance

Applicants must have a strong academic record, reflecting a commitment to hard work and excellence. We recommend that applicants have a college GPA of 3.25 or greater.

Leadership

Applicants must demonstrate leadership and a commitment to communities in need through work experience, campus organizations, athletics or other extracurricular activities.
Ambition

Applicants must clearly articulate their professional goals and possess a passion for achieving their professional goals. The fellowship is open to students from all disciplines and interests.

Candidates must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents

Preference is given to:

- Students who are the first in their families to attend college and those who are from low-income backgrounds
- Rising sophomores (current freshmen)
- New York residents attending New York-based colleges and universities.

The list above is not exhaustive but does represent the most important factors that we will consider in making selection decisions. We will make exceptions to the criteria listed above if a student demonstrates unique potential in other ways or has overcome particularly adverse circumstances.
