Field Description

The study of divergent modes of expression and cultures serves to broaden students perspectives and deepen their understanding of both themselves and their world. Language students not only develop an oral and written command of the studied language but also gain a comprehensive knowledge of the civilizations and cultures of the countries where the language is spoken. Literary analysis develops the students critical faculties and sense of style as well. The department offers courses in Arabic, Chinese, French, Hebrew, Italian, Japanese, Portuguese, and Spanish, and literature courses conducted in English.

Spanish

The Spanish courses of the Department of Modern Languages and Comparative Literature are designed to give students oral and written fluency in the language and to impart a knowledge of the literatures of Spain and Latin America. It is hoped that literary appreciation and critical methods will be developed and that the students cultural and intellectual vistas will be broadened. A BA student majoring in Spanish may also declare the interdisciplinary minor in Spanish-English Translation. Students cannot use one course in both the major and the minor.

Program Learning Goals

Upon completion of a major in Spanish, students will be able to:

Knowledge of the Field

1. Read, discuss, present, and write in the language at the level appropriate for advanced students.
2. Identify phonetic, semantic, grammatical, syntactical, socio-political and/or cultural differences between Spanish and English and varieties of Spanish.

3. Understand the nature of cultural, literary and/or filmic texts within particular historical and socio-political contexts.
4. Analyze individual literary and/or filmic texts within the cultural, historical, and aesthetic traditions from which they arise.
5. Identify and situate major aesthetic movements, currents and tendencies in Hispanic literature and/or film over time.
6. Differentiate the formal conventions of major literary genres (essay, poetry, novel, short story, theater).
7. Understand and articulate the strategies and structures that constitute literary and/or filmic texts.

Critical Thinking and Research Skills

1. Master the fundamental aspects of critical analysis, including evidence substantiation through research and bibliographical references, and application of the appropriate terminology.
2. Communicate effectively, both orally and in writing, the results of his/her own research and the research of others.
3. Write thesis-driven and descriptive essays on sophisticated themes that are pertinent to the study of literature and/or film in the context of the cultures in which the texts are produced.
4. Demonstrate critical and close reading skills and the ability to make cross-cultural and interdisciplinary connections.

Civic Engagement

1. Establish connections between the formal study of cultural, literary, and critical texts and social-historical and cultural issues pertinent to Hispanic communities both locally and abroad.
2. Participate in activities in the local community that complement or require implementation of the knowledge and skills gained through the course work.

Major Course Requirements

Required Courses

All students who major in Spanish will take a minimum of 24 credits in this field. Students who have had three or more years of Spanish in high school or the equivalent may start their electives immediately. Arts and Sciences Ad Hoc Major

When a students educational objectives cannot be fully attained solely by study within an existing department, program, or school, he or she is given the option of devising an ad hoc pattern of courses in an area of concentration of his or her own choosing. A student may embark upon an ad hoc major following preparation and acceptance of a proposal outlining the area of study, the desired outcomes, and the educational values of the program. The program must be approved by the chairpersons of the appropriate departments and the Office of the Associate Dean of Arts and Sciences.

Students interested in including courses in French, Spanish, or Italian as part of an arts and sciences ad hoc major should contact the Department of Modern Languages and Comparative Literature at 646-312-4210.

The Weissman School of Arts and Sciences ad hoc major requires 30–33 credits.

The Minors

- Chinese
- French
- Hebrew
- Italian
- Japanese

- Spanish
- Spanish-English Translation
- Comparative Literature

A minor consists of a minimum of 9 credits as described below, not including courses taken toward the fulfillment of the base curriculum.

Chinese

Students who choose to develop their intellectual abilities in Chinese may select two courses at the 3000-level or above from the Chinese section of the department's course offerings. Any 4000-level course in Chinese may serve as the capstone course for the minor.

back to top

French

Advanced training in francophone language and literature is increasingly necessary for business, teaching, translation, and other professional careers. Students who choose to develop their intellectual abilities in these areas may select two courses at the 3000-level or above from the French section of the department's offering. To complete their minors, students must enroll in an appropriate capstone course. Any 4000- or 5000-level course in French may serve as the capstone course for the minor.

Spanish-English Translation

Translation is the language of global communication, whether the text to be translated is a company's year-end report, an ad campaign, a politician's speech, a poem, or a novel. The interdisciplinary minor in Spanish-English Translation, suitable for both Arts and Sciences and Business majors, allows students with good skills in English and Spanish to perfect their knowledge of both languages and gain the ability to produce fluent, accurate, and effective translations between them. The minor is open to all students who have successfully completed a 4000-level Literature or Culture and Civilization course in Spanish. To complete the minor, students must take three courses: SPA 4003, Spanish-English Translation Workshop; the capstone, SPA 4004, Seminar in Translation: Spanish-English; and one 3000 or 4000-level course from the list of approved electives offered by the Departments of English, Communication Studies, or Modern Languages and Comparative Literature. Note: This minor is open to students who are pursuing a major in Spanish. Students cannot use one course in both the major and the minor.

Comparative Literature

The minor in comparative literature provides students with a thorough knowledge of several national literatures through comparative and interdisciplinary study. Students must complete three courses at the 3000-level or higher, at least one of which must be a capstone, 4000-level course. Please note, CMP 4907 (cross-listed as AAS and FLM 4907), may be used as an elective within the Comparative Literature minor. This course may not be used to satisfy capstone requirement for the Comparative Literature minor. Students are also encouraged to pursue the study of a foreign language.

Special Program

Majors in the Department of Modern Languages and Comparative Literature will be admitted to the honors program in their junior and senior years with the following provisions: that a letter of recommendation from the students sponsor be written and reviewed by an Honors Program Committee consisting of three members chosen by the chairperson of the department, that the student has at least 12 credits in modern languages, and that the student has at least a 3.4 average in his or her major and that his or her overall record is good.

Structure: Students must take courses 6001H and 6002H either consecutively or simultaneously. Course 6002 can be a continuation of 6001, or it can be in a related field. In this context, a related field may be construed as comparative literature or linguistics.

Honors Paper 6003 (2 credits): The final outcome of courses 6001 and 6002 will be an honors paper written by the student and supervised by a sponsor. The honors paper, after being approved by the sponsor, will be read by two other members of the department who are to be appointed by an Honors Program Committee. The degree with honors will be awarded by the Weissman School of Arts and Sciences upon recommendation of the department, whose minimum standards for such recommendation will be the grade of A in all three courses.
