

Baruch in the News

Spring 2012

FACULTY/STAFF:

President Wallerstein quoted on DNAinfo.com re: Baruch's Turn On the Lights Ceremony on E. 25th Street.

Hector Cordero-Guzman in the New York Times with comments on Occupy Wall Street and May Day.

Jason Munshi-South speaks at the first TEDYouth conference in NYC on evolution; his talk is featured on TED's YouTube Channel.

Dean David Birdsell on ABC's Tiempo with comments on redistricting.

Ana Ramos-Zayas on ABC's Tiempo with comments Latin American studies at Baruch College.

David Birdsell on WABC-TV with comments on the NY primary and the Supreme Court's decision on the Affordable Care Act.

Dean John Elliott on CNBC with comments on the CFO Outlook Survey. The survey was also mentioned in the Wall Street Journal, Accounting Today and CFO.com.

Michael Plekon interviewed by Jornal da Band (Brazil TV).

A poll from Baruch College Survey Research about the NYPD was featured in the Associated Press. NY1.com and City and State.

Bernard Baruch Dinner featured on NYSocialDiary.com.

ALUMNI/STUDENTS:

Baruch alumna and scholarship creator Nadja Fidelia featured in the Wall Street Journal.

School of Public Affairs MPA alumnus Fatima Shama on NY1 re: Immigrant Heritage Week.

Two Baruch students earn Jeanette K. Watson Fellowships.

Executive MPA alumnus featured in the Daily News for receiving 2012 Sloan Award.

BARUCH PROGRAMS:

U.S. News & World Report ranks Baruch College among 2013 Best Graduate Schools.

The Financial Reporting Conference hosted by the Robert Zicklin Center for Corporate Integrity was featured in The Economist. Also featured in Business to Community, Thomson Reuters, Yahoo News, The Economic Times and The CFO Journal.

The Zicklin School of Business mentioned in Crain's NY Business re: startups and college programs.

Baruch Performing Arts Center mentioned in New York Times re: review of The Acting Company's Julius Caesar.

BPAC's Mason Hall featured in photo shoot in Elle Magazine.

Baruch student volunteers complete the [Volunteer Tax Assistance Program \(VITA\)](http://Volunteer Tax Assistance Program (VITA)) with $8 million in refunds. Student Dennis Wang '12 featured in ABC's Tiempo and News 12 Brooklyn.